

Tarif bakdash M.D, MHSc, MEHP ,FAAN.

Is a professor at Oakland University William Beaumont hospital.

A pediatric neurologist, epileptologist, movement disorders, behavioral sleep disorders specialist.

Trained at Harvard. Cleveland clinic, Baylor college of medicine, and Rush university.

Has a master degree in bioethics from the university of Toronto on a grant from WHO. 2006.

Has a Master of Education in the Health Professions at Johns Hopkins University in 2018.

Former Academic Coordinator at WHO.

First Secretary General for People with Disabilities in Syria.

Member of the Syrian American Medical Society that served 3.5 millions Syrians during the revolution.

Gave more than 100 talks at different national and international conferences.

Has 4 active American Board certifications.

Received many awards in education at different universities and institutions.

Published "Inside Syria, a physician's memoir". Which is taught at Missouri state university.