

TÜMAY AYDOĞAN MD, Fellow MMEd

Is the associate dean of Biruni University Faculty of Medicine, an assistant professor and the director of medical education department.

Is a fellow of Masters in Medical Education at Dundee University, UK.

Graduated from Yeditepe University Faculty of Medicine in 2006 with high honor degree.

Completed her family medicine residency at İstanbul Bakırköy Sadi Konuk Research and Training Hospital in 2011.

Served as a family physician at Arnavutköy Public Health Center and Arnavutköy Maternal and Child Health-Family Planning Center between 2011-2013.

Had been a guest physician and observer at Harvard Medical School (HMS), Brigham and Women's Hospital Center Faculty Development and Diversity, Massachusetts General Hospital, Harvard Medical School Affiliated Hospital Breast Center, Hallmark Health System Comprehensive Breast Center.

Attended numerous medical educational programs including The HMS CME Program, Principles of Medical Education Maximizing Your Teaching Skills Course, HMS Faculty Development Series, HMS Medical Education Grand Rounds, Brigham and Women's Hospital Clinical Writing for Publication Course and Clinical Skill Development Seminar, HMS Writing for Scholarship Workshop Series in Boston, 2013-2014 and International Congress on Medical Education and the course on Aligning the Medical School Curriculum with WFMA standards in 2015.

Founded the Medical Education department at Biruni University Faculty of Medicine in 2015.

Received ' AMEE Medical Education Study Fellowship Award' in 2017.

Attended 'Comprehensive Instructor in Medical Simulation Workshop' at Harvard University Center for Simulation in 2018.

Has over 10 peer-reviewed articles and presentations, a book chapter about breast cancer and translated 2 chapters in books about Medical Biology and Genetics and breast diseases.

Has been giving lectures on clinical practice using simulation and phantom models, public health, medical ethics, problem-based learning and family medicine.